BEING INSTALLED

Demonstration of Irrigation Methods to Be Installed by Agricultural College.

The office of the state fair association yesterday was transferred from Vermont building to the fair grounds, where all business will be transacted from now until the big exposition closes, one week from Satur-

Most of the booths for exhibits at the grounds are ready for occupancy and the placing of the exhibits has begun. Practically all will be in place by the end of the week. Every effort has been put forth to have the fair in total readiness for the opening day and for the most part success will crown the effort. The unfinished condition will be negligible indeed by Monday.

One of the most interesting exhibits being installed this year is a striking demonstration of irrigation methods, old and new, under the auspices of the agricultural college. Here will be shown the old Egyptian forms of raising and levering the maters of the ing and lowering the waters of the Nile for irrigation purposes thousands of years ago. In contrast, the latest scientific methods of irrigation will be demonstrated.

The college also is preparing for a demonstration of soils. Experts will be on hand to explain the qualities and formations of the various kinds of soil to be met within the state and their relative values. This exhibition will be of great values as a restriction. of great value as a practical lesson of what the best crop is for the soil the farmer has at his command. Many other features of farming will be given attention by the college department of the fair. the fair.

It is the boast of the fair essocia-tion that the showing of Utah made goods in the manufacturers' building will surpass any exposition of its kind ever shown in the state.

DON'T BE THIN Ever See Anything

No Need of Being Scrawny, Weak and Emediated.

In these days of physical culture and health foods, one would hardly expect to see any thin, weak, emaciated peo-ple, but in spite of all this, nearly ev-ery person you meet is thin and scrawny.

Good healthy flesh can only be gained by the use of the proper food with thorough assimilation of the fat-giving elements. Nine people out of ten, in order to weigh as much as they ought and be perfectly healthy, should use Samose, the great flesh-forming food. Weigh yourself before commoncing to use these little tablets and soe how your weight increases.

Samose has valuable flesh-forming and tissue building properties, and when it is assimilated with the food, it causes the flesh-making elements to be retained and the weight is naturally increased.

"The Round-Up" is giving the closing performances at the Sait Lake theater. This powerful spectacular melodrama of life in southwestern Arizona when General Crook was classing Conchise, the famous Apache marauder, and his band of truent redskins back to their reservation, has made a most remarkable appeal to theatergoers. It touches with singular force the romantic spirit inherent in everyone. Its story is true to the heart and to natures Its couracters are striking, well drawn and cleverly contrasted, and the entire performance teems with fascinating dash and spirit from stert to finish. It is so real in the personalities who tell the story, its Indians, cowboys, scouts and cavalrymen, its bucking brouches and its thrilling battle spectacle, that one is translated to the locale of the scenes and for the time becomes actually a participant in these stirring events in the great southwest. The sense of witnessing stage mimitry seems entirely lost in the auditor of The Round-Up." This is the secret of the really marvelous success of the play.

Playgoers have come to expect what is known as a "punch" in every play that Paul Armstrong writes. In the past it has been this "punch" that has scored success for each and every one of his plays. He believes in making sure of their success by the introduction of a scene that carries a thrill. In "Alias-Jimmy Valentine." Armstrong brought an interesting play to a sensational close through the exciting safe-opening scene, of which so much has been said and written. In "The Deep Purple" there was a sensational scene in the second act in which the budger game "was attempted. In "A Romance of the Underworld." his latest success, which comes to the Sait Lake theater for the week commencing Monday night, with Holbrook Bilinn at the head of an all-starest, he has introduced into the third act a courtroom scene where an entire trial is carried through from beginning to end with a wonderful rainstorm effect, which suggests to the defending attorney a way to combat the nertured testimony of an unprincipled politician. The play has a run of three months in Chicago to its credit.

William H St. James, who, with his associate players, is this week presenting at the Orpheum a comedy entitled "A Chip of the Old Block," is not unknown to local playgoers. His work with Dustin Farnum in "Cameo Kirby" and his interpretation of the squire in "Way Down East" are both well and bleasantly remembered. "A Chip of the Old Block," is by Byron Onsiev, author of "Brewster's Millions" and co-author of "The Typhoon." The story is simple and well fold and altogether it affords numerous laughs and some pathos. To-night is the regular society night.

night is the regular society night.

To witness a performance of "La Petite Gosse." now being presented at the Empress theater is like making a visit to the underworld of Paris. Everything necessary for the faithful portrayal of this great pantomime has been and is being done, that the public in general may see for themselves the sordid conditions which prevail in the great city of Paris. Mr. Molasso has sent out with this production two of his best dancers and pantomimists, and so faithful is the portrayal that it could not be improved upon were the presentation made in words. Lillian Lester and Carlo Cassetta are the two who have the burden of proof on their shoulders and they are wonderfully clever, and move about with lightning rapidity. Mr. Cassetta virtually defees all the laws of gravity in his balancing and spinning. Nothing like it has ever been attempted on a local stage.

L ILLIAN LESTER, the clever little Parisian dancer who, with Carlo Cassetta, is giving an exhibition of the Apache dance of the Parisian under-world at the Empress theater this week, will doubtless remember these dances after her life on the stage has come to an end. Black and blue marks on her arms, neck and shoulders are not infrequent as a result of the terrible manner in which she is thrown about. At one time, while dancing with her partner Carlo Cassetta, one of the best known Apache dancers, a handkerchief was placed about her neck and in being swung about, throwing all her weight on the handkerchief, it broke. weight on the handkerchief, it broke, precipitating Miss Lester to the floor with such force that she was rendered unconscious. The little dancer, undaunted, continued as soon as she was able, and the show went on. "Why, I just love to dance this way," remarked Miss Lester, as she was being the light themselves and then the way. hurled through space, and then the next second spinning like a top.
